Growing through the Sunday Scriptures

January 30, 2022
Fourth Sunday in Ordinary Time
Jeremiah 1:4-5, 17-19
Psalm 71:1-2, 3-4, 5-6, 15, 17
1 Corinthians 12:31—13:13
Luke 4:21-30

A reading from the Gospel according to Luke:

Jesus began speaking in the synagogue, saying: “Today this Scripture passage is fulfilled in your hearing.”

And all spoke highly of him and were amazed at the gracious words that came from his mouth. They also asked, “Isn’t this the son of Joseph?”

He said to them, “Surely you will quote me this proverb, ‘Physician, cure yourself,’ and say, ‘Do here in your native place the things that we heard were done in Capernaum.’”

And he said, “Amen, I say to you, no prophet is accepted in his own native place. Indeed, I tell you, there were many widows in Israel in the days of Elijah when the sky was closed for three and a half years and a severe famine spread over the entire land. It was to none of these that Elijah was sent, but only to a widow in Zarephath in the land of Sidon.

Again, there were many lepers in Israel during the time of Elisha the prophet; yet not one of them was cleansed, but only Naaman the Syrian.”

When the people in the synagogue heard this, they were all filled with fury. They rose up, drove him out of the town, and led him to the brow of the hill on which their town had been built, to hurl him down headlong.

But Jesus passed through the midst of them and went away.

Focus Questions:

1. Relate a time when you spoke the truth and did not receive a welcome response.
2. Jesus highlights the healing of a nonbeliever. Describe a time when you were amazed at the faith of a ‘nonbeliever’
3. Describe a time when you felt that your own family and friends did not understand you.

Family and children’s question:

Talk about the importance of being truthful. Share a story of someone who told the truth even when it was difficult.

FR. ANTONY'S LETTER

Dear Friends,

A man was overheard as he was leaving his companion at the entrance to the Internal Revenue Service Office: "As your tax consultant, I said in case of an audit I would accompany you the IRS. I never said anything about going in with you."

Everyone says they want community and friendship. But mention accountability or commitment to people, and they run the other way. (Timothy Keller) Yes, as humans, we are social beings longing for loving and committed relationships, but at the same time each of us is an individual with our own uniqueness.

St. Paul in today's second reading metaphorically explains this human reality. Human society is like the human body. Each of us is individually a member of this human body. We have our own unique value, function and responsibility. But at the same time our own uniqueness would be deadly and of no value if we don't function together as ONE human body. A member has to be connected and synchronize itself to the body in order to be alive. To be healthy and alive means that all the members have to be interconnected and work together harmoniously as a body.

As humans, we would often be tempted to live our own uniqueness in the name of our individual right or personal freedom. Uniqueness is good but it cannot be alive in itself. It will die if it is not united to the body. So we need something very convincing, to bring us together in order to keep us all alive and active. Again St. Paul reminds us that the spiritual reality of Christ's presence among us brings each of us, the individuals together in order to be alive and active, responsible and loving, growing and healthy body.

In today's Gospel Jesus explains the same living reality of harmonious living. Jesus was an individual human being but His vision and mission were to live His life not for His own selfish satisfaction but as the fulfillment of the Spirit of the Lord. His life is not to live his own whims and fancies but the inspiration and work of the Spirit. He explained that His life is to bring good news to the poor, to proclaim liberty to captives to give recovery of sight to the blind, to let the oppressed go free and to proclaim a year acceptable to the Lord. His individual uniqueness is lived as social fulfillment. His life is people's liberation, healing and wellness.

We are called to day to find the fulfilment of our individual uniqueness in the service of others who live with us. In living together harmoniously with others we will find our strength and meaning of living our individual self. The more we have a place for others in our lives the more we will be empowered and enthused to live our own individual lives. Let us pray that Christ the living power among us enlighten us and empower us to live our individual uniqueness.

With love and prayers,
Fr. Antony

Restoring Religious Freedom to Thirty-Five Members of Military

More than 12,000 military service members seeking a religious exemption to the Covid vaccine had all been denied an exemption until one resounding victory to 35 Navy SEALs on Jan. 3, 2022. Federal Judge Reed O'Connor found that, "the Covid-19 pandemic provides the government no license to abrogate" the freedoms of any American. "The Plaintiffs' loss of religious liberties outweighs any forthcoming harm to the Navy. Even the direst circumstances cannot justify the loss of constitutional rights."⁽¹⁾

"No longer can the Navy force service members to choose between their faith and serving their country," said Mike Berry, representing the 35 SEALs on behalf of First Liberty Institute. "If religious freedom means anything, it must mean that those who are sworn to protect our freedoms should not be forced to lose those very same freedoms."⁽²⁾ "Of the thousands of religious exemptions that have been sought (the military) has not approved a single one. That is textbook discrimination," Berry said.⁽³⁾

"My clients believe that the usage of fetal cell lines derived from abortions in the testing and development of any medical treatment is wrong," said attorney R. Davis Younts. "Interestingly, the Covid-19 vaccines have caused many individuals to learn about this unethical practice for the first time and they intend to take a stand against this practice in the future."⁽⁴⁾

Happening Now: Still Waiting for Court Date and Justice for Masked Student⁽⁵⁾

Lydia Booth, a 3rd grader at Simpson Central School in Mississippi in 2020, was forced to remove her mask that said "Jesus Loves Me", even though school officials allowed students to wear a wide variety of other messages on their masks including sports team logos and "Black Lives Matter."⁽⁶⁾ Lydia said of the mask, "It makes me feel like I'm protected by Jesus."⁽⁷⁾

After Lydia's mother did research, she found there was no school policy against expressing religious beliefs on a mask although school officials told her this is the policy. Lydia's First Amendment right to free speech and religious freedom had been violated. Their Alliance Defending Freedom counsel said, "We're seeing administrators all over the place trying to shut down speech. They have many different reasons for doing it, but we're seeing a lot of Christian and conservative viewpoints being marginalized."⁽⁸⁾
