Matthew 10:26-33 (Ordinary 12)

Jesus said to the Twelve: "Fear no one. Nothing is concealed that will not be revealed, nor secret that will not be known. What I say to you in the darkness, speak in the light; what you hear whispered, proclaim on the housetops. And do not be afraid of those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul; rather, be afraid of the one who can destroy both soul and body in Gehenna. Are not two sparrows sold for a small coin? Yet not one of them falls to the ground without your Father's knowledge. Even all the hairs of your head are counted. So do not be afraid; you are worth more than many sparrows. Everyone who acknowledges me before others I will acknowledge before my heavenly Father. But whoever denies me before others, I will deny before my heavenly Father."

Focus Questions for 6/25/23

Matthew 10:26-33

- 1: Describe a time when Jesus' words about God's care for sparrows or his intimate knowledge of you (even the hairs on your head) gave you courage.
- 2: What is your greatest fear about speaking to others about your faith?
- 3: Describe a time when you were anxious about something that positively resolved itself.

Family & Children's Question:
What helps you when you are afraid?

Fr. Antony's Letter

Dear Friends,

A politician belonging to party X criticized a politician belonging to party Y, "You know how you can tell that fella's lying? Watch his lips. If they are moving, he is lying." Lying is a waste of words that helps neither the liar nor the person to whom it is spoken. It debilitates both. It is believed that St. Francis of Assisi once said, "Preach the Gospel at all times. Use words if necessary." His saying accentuates both the power and the weakness of the words. Our words are powerful if they are supported by our life. They become weak and useless when they become just sound bites without any support from fact or real life.

This Sunday's readings describe how rich we are as God's children and Christ's disciples. The first reading states that we are God's special possession, and we shall be to God a kingdom of priests, a holy nation. God possesses us and values us according to His standard when He calls us as a Holy nation and kingdom of priests. Holiness belongs to the realm of God. To be holy is to be Godly; thus, we are Godly in His eyes and that is how we become His priests, whose lives are fulfilled in our service to God. So, all what we say or do can carry God's effect.

The second reading confirms the first. Though God may value us according to His standard we may still feel the burden of sins we committed. But God proves his love for us in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us. We were reconciled to God through the death of his Son and were saved by His life. God reconciles voluntarily so that we may be liberated from the burden of sin and begin to live His life. So, all what we say or do can carry God's effect.

Today's Gospel narrates how much confidence Jesus had in His disciples. He sent them to do the same mission that Jesus was doing. He showered upon them the same power He employed in His mission. When He sent them, He empowered them saying, "As you go, make this proclamation: 'The kingdom of heaven is at hand.' Cure the sick, raise the dead, cleanse lepers, drive out demons. Without cost you have received; without cost you are to give." Jesus called them, empowered them and commissioned them to do His commission. So, all that we are or do can be Jesus' mission with Jesus' power.

We are Jesus' disciples. Jesus values us as we are God's creation. Jesus sees in us what we can do as God's Holy nation. He wants us to realize that we are redeemed by Him to live God's life. All that we say or do, think or execute, can be done as Christ's mission. Jesus commissions us today as He did with His disciples. He equips us with the same Godly power and purpose, so that our life can be a proclamation everyday and everywhere in our total being. We can become a proclamation of Jesus's good news just by trying to live a Godly life with the help of Christ's grace. With or without verbal proclamation we can be God's revelation by the way we live. Let us live as St. Francis of Assisi instructed, "Preach the Gospel at all times. Use words if necessary."

With love and prayers,
Fr. Antony

His Presence Is Real - Reflections on the Eucharist by Deacon Matt

Transubstantiation

When I was in diaconate formation, we were taught (many times!) never to use big, complicated theological words in our homilies. This column, however, is fair game to discuss one of the most important and central concepts of our Catholic faith: transubstantiation.

If we look at the etymology of the word, it literally means "to change from one substance to another." The bread and wine consecrated by the priest on the altar, we believe, actually becomes the Body, Blood, Soul and Divinity of Jesus Christ himself.

The first official use of this term as doctrine occurred at the Fourth Lateran Council in 1215, though it had been in use about a century before. As with all things we believe, there is a Scriptural basis for this, found in 1 Cor. 11:23-27, as well as the Gospel accounts of the institution of the sacrament (for example, Lk. 22:7-20). This mystery is critical to our Catholic faith.

One of my favorite saints, Thomas Aquinas, explained this using philosophy (in terms borrowed from Aristotle) and metaphysics. He termed the bread and wine itself the "substance," meaning that which exists in its own right, without needing to be sustained by another. The outward appearances of the bread and wine are the "accidents" (not meaning "oops" but that which could change, like color or shape). In his work Summa Theologiae (III, q. 75, a.2), he stated that the substance must become Christ and ceases to be bread and wine. This is because Jesus himself said of the Eucharist, "This is my body. This is my blood." It still looks, tastes and smells like bread and wine (the "accidents" remain). But it now truly is Jesus, his Real Presence. Jesus is not present along side the bread and wine (consubstantiation) but is the bread and wine.

However strong the help of reason might be, transubstantiation is still ultimately a matter of faith. And this doctrine is foundational to what it means to be Catholic.

"By the consecration the transubstantiation of the bread and wine into the Body and Blood of Christ is brought about. Christ himself...is present in a true, real and substantial manner." - Catechism of the Catholic Church, 2nd ed., n. 1413

Council Scholarship Application

The Knights of Columbus Council # 6062 is a nonprofit organization established to assist the St. Thomas More community. The organization is comprised of men from the St. Thomas More Parish. Through a variety of events and activities, we donate funds, provide services and time to many causes, one of them being our community youth. This scholarship is one way we as a council, have decide to give back to a member of our community that lives his or her life in a way that echoes the mission of our council.

Who is eligible? All current graduating high school seniors who are members of the St. Thomas More Parish

How will the winner be selected? The winner will be selected by the Grand Knight and a committee comprised of officers of the council. The judges will evaluate eligible student's application in relation to their goals, school and community service, as well as other significant information that the applicant includes in the required essay. The winner will be notified by the end of June. The award winner and his or her family will be invited to the council's regular business meeting on the first Wednesday of July or other day to be specified. No materials will be returned to the candidates. All entries will see results posted in the church bulletin.

How much is the scholarship? The council will award the winner with a check for $250 with the intention that the money be used to offset the expenses of college.

How do I apply? Complete the application on the next page, and attach a typed 300-word essay.

Essay Question: In your own words, what are the challenges facing younger Catholics in today's world? And what can you do from a personal perspective to keep your faith strong in difficult times?

Mail both the application and essay to:

Knights of Columbus
